

About the Island

It might surprise you to see a small ocean in the middle of the desert, but that's just what you'll find at Great Salt Lake. The massive lake stretches nearly 75 miles long and is five times saltier than the ocean. While the high levels of salinity make it tough for any aquatic life outside of algae and brine shrimp, it does allow visitors to float with ease.

In the middle of it all, you'll find the 28,000-acre oasis known as Antelope Island State Park. With stunning scenery, roaming wildlife, and millions of birds flocking here each spring, you'll experience nature like never before.

Antelope Island State Park is the perfect place to observe wildlife like you've never seen it before—in nature and backed by some of the most stunning sunsets you'll ever see in Utah.

With unique activities covering every inch of the island, including over 50 miles of trails for hiking, biking or horseback riding, plus kayaking, wildlife and bird watching, you can experience nature in a whole new way.

INTERNATIONAL DARK SKY PARK

ANTELOPE ISLAND STATE PARK

Experience Nature
Like Never Before

Bird Watching

The Great Salt Lake is part of the Western Hemispheric Shorebird Reserve Network and is a National Audubon Important Bird Area. The 7.2 mile causeway is a fantastic place to view shorebirds.

Fielding Garr Ranch

Fielding Garr established the first permanent residence on the island in 1848, which is Utah's oldest Anglo-built structure still standing on its existing foundation. Tour the home and Historic Fielding Garr Ranch, a western ranching living history.

Bison Roundup

The annual Bison Roundup is a true western experience. Held in the late fall each year, horseback riders from around the world actually 'round up' the 600+ bison into the corrals for a veterinary check.

International Dark Sky Recognition

Antelope Island State Park is one of 23 designated state or national parks in Utah, boasting the most sites in the world! The island received its designation by the International Dark-Sky Association in 2017. Star parties are held throughout the year.
