Clearfield Aquatic Center

More than 350,000 people call Davis County home in bustling urban centers like Layton and Bountiful, suburban family havens, and the wide open, rural spaces in between. Professionals and families are finding all the entertainment, dining, and shopping options they need.

Between the Great Salt Lake and the Wasatch Mountains, Davis features stunning sunrises and sunsets that will leave you breathless. Beyond aesthetic appeal, these geographical features provide the community with limitless recreational opportunities. Hikers and bikers enjoy more than 500 miles of trails to explore. Comprehensive maps with trail descriptions are available at daviscountyutah.gov/trails – or pick up a FREE Trails & Bikeways map at any city office or bike shop in Davis County.

Unique wildlife viewing opportunities are available at Antelope Island State Park. Bison, antelope, deer, coyotes, and bighorn sheep can be seen roaming freely on the island. Each May the Great Salt Lake Bird Festival attracts bird enthusiasts from across the world to experience millions of diverse fowl migrating through the Pacific Flyway. Jerry Liguori, a renowned birder and author has said, "The Great Salt Lake Bird Festival is one of the most unique festivals in the United States. The field trips are held at some of the most amazing wildlife areas in the world and they are abundant with wildlife."

 CENTERPOINT
Legacy Theatre

Discover Davis and find a thriving arts culture of museums, community theatre, music festivals and art galleries. Begin your cultural exploration with our listings on page 6 of this guide. CenterPoint Legacy Theatre in Centerville offers a variety of high-quality musical theatre productions year round, and the Davis Arts Council proudly presents local artists and popular music artists alike on the Edward A. Kenley Centennial Amphitheatre Stage in Layton.

Although Davis living is attractive to commuters working in Salt Lake City to the south and Ogden to the North, the local employment market is also booming. Hill Air Force Base boasts 5,000 active duty and reserve Air Force, 15,000 civilians, and 3,500 government contractors—pumping $4 billion into the local economy annually.

The Davis School District is the second largest in the state, with 59 elementary schools, 17 junior high schools, and 9 high schools. Outstanding educators and administrators prepare students for higher education by partnering with local colleges and universities to offer 95 different concurrent enrollment college courses to high school students in the district.

Davis is booming, with the population expected to double by 2050. Safe communities, high-quality education, dining, entertainment and recreational opportunities abound here in Discover Davis, Utah's Amusement Capital.

ANTELOPE ISLAND STATE PARK

Antelope Island State Park

When you want to get away from it all—but not too far away—Antelope Island is Davis County's very own wilderness oasis.

A short seven-mile causeway is all that separates the bustle of Davis County from Antelope Island State Park—but the wildlife refuge and state park in the middle of Utah's world famous Great Salt Lake still feels a world away.

First documented by John C. Fremont and Kit Carson in 1845, Antelope Island was named after the wildlife that make the island their home. Now that home is protected by a 28,000-acre State Park. To this day an incredible variety of birds and a herd of 600 bison—as well as coyote, big horn sheep, mule deer, and pronghorn (antelope)—thrive in an isolated oasis where visitors come for spectacular views of the animals, tours of a historical homestead and unique recreational opportunities.

The Fielding Garr Ranch is the first permanent residence on the island, built in 1848. Still standing on its original foundations, the ranch house and surrounding buildings are a fascinating piece of Utah history to explore.

But there is far more to discover in this close-to-home wilderness. More than 50 miles of non-motorized trails crisscrossing the island are ideal for hiking, horseback riding, and biking. Canoes and kayaks launch from the marina, and swimming in the highly saline water is best at Bridger Bay Beach where showers and restrooms are available.

Discover Davis in Winter

Utah is world famous for its Greatest Snow on Earth®, which provides ideal skiing and snowboarding conditions into early spring. It's easy to see why Salt Lake City and surrounding venues were chosen to host the 2002 Olympic Winter Games.

Just minutes from the hustle and bustle of downtown Salt Lake City, located between the breathtaking Great Salt Lake and the snowcapped Wasatch Mountains, Davis is ideally situated for winter fun. From skiing, snowmobiling and wildlife watching on Antelope Island to ice skating, indoor fun centers and a thriving arts community, Davis is a one-stop winter destination for amusement and outdoor adventure.

Add plenty of family-friendly hotels and hundreds of restaurants to choose from, and you have everything you need for an amazing Utah staycation or winter weekend getaway. The hardest decision will be which nearby resort to ski first, and which Discover Davis restaurant to enjoy after a day on the slopes!

HOW WILL YOU DISCOVER DAVIS?

Davis County's western bank begins at the hemisphere's largest saltwater lake and then climbs eastward more than a vertical mile to Thurston Peak in the Wasatch Mountains. The transition from lakeshore to foothill to mountain range creates incredible geographical, geological, biological and recreational diversity. Bring a couple of footwear options and you can hike, bike, boat, golf and ski in a single afternoon.

So skip the question, "What is there to do in Davis?" Instead ask, "How will I Discover Davis today?"

By Air

The famously variable shore of the Great Salt Lake makes for acres of wetlands that are the perfect stop for local and migrating birds. You'll have a very successful bird-watching year between Farmington Bay Waterfowl Management Area, The Great Salt Lake Shorelands Preserve and, 25 minutes north, the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge. Meet up with other birders at the Great Salt Lake Bird Festival, or try a guided tour from the Wild About Birds Nature Center.

By Water

Between the Great Salt Lake and all the creeks, ponds and reservoirs, more than half of Davis is under water. This creates a lot of opportunity for outdoor recreation.

There's great fishing at Holmes Creek Reservoir, Bountiful Pond, Farmington Pond, Hobbs Pond, Andy Adams Pond and Kaysville Ponds (bluegill, largemouth bass, channel catfish and trout); or try fly fishing at Farmington Creek. You can go for a float in the super-buoyant Great Salt Lake or for a surreal sunset, head to Antelope Island.

Great Salt Lake Shorelands

By Land

Davis County is the smallest county by land area in Utah, but it has more than 500 miles of trails. Walk, run, hike, bike or push a stroller on anything from the paved Legacy Parkway Trail to the single-tracks climbing the canyons of the Wasatch Mountains. Here are a few to get you started.
